Subject: Company asking about camelina producers

I have a company interested in contracting camelina production in the Shelby-Chester-Conrad area and also in Lewistown-Moccasin-Judith Gap area. In total, they would like to have 100,000 acres in 2007 in these areas. They plan to locate a crusher in Shelby this year with expansion to the Lewistown area in 2008 but are anticipating delivery points would be their elevators in the above areas. As it stands, they are looking to [lease, buy, rent?] probably two elevators in the Shelby area and one in Lewistown so those would be delivery points. In terms of acres per contract, it looks like a minimum of 100 acres. The contract is still being developed but basically going to cover production costs per acre at harvest and the balance upon delivery (or interest until crushed). Let me know ASAP if you have growers Great Plains Oil & Exploration should contact. Duane Johnson
